the injection is carried out using a small catheter from a vein of the upper limb.